Hanson Chans The Saga of a Taoist Nun, Book 1 and 2, in English editions are in fact the second and revised editions of Hua Hu, Book 1 and 2, which were previously published in 2006. Both are translations from the original Chinese versions by the same author. In real history, Hua Hu or Lao Tzus Hua Hu Jing was an ancient Taoist scripture that circulated in China in the fourth century. It stated that Lao Tzu, after having finished the Tao Te Ching and discovered Tao, left China for India, where he taught a disciple named Sakyamuni. This disciple founded a religion called Buddhism, which preached kindness to all. However, its story was challenged by Buddhists and deemed as a slander. For centuries, debates between the two religions were held with no result until the Kubilai Khans reign when the Taoists were allegedly defeated and the Mongol emperor decreed all copies banned and burnt. Hanson Chans two martial arts novels about Hua Hu...
